SWAMP LAND DECISION

[illegible]

[illegible] of [illegible] the same [illegible] Jan [illegible] 1868 [illegible] [illegible] and which [illegible] fifty days thereafter at [illegible] January [illegible] (see laws of [illegible]) [illegible] Law of Oregon [illegible] The act of 18[illegible] did not [illegible] by the laws of the United States [illegible] swamp land claimed by settlers under donation laws as well as preemption and homestead laws

According to the [illegible] such cases as we [illegible] land the amended portions of the law have been in force from the time the amended act took effect and no theory of which could have a retrospective operation when they would thereby impair certain vested rights By the [illegible] of O[illegible] [illegible] title [illegible] for the selection and [illegible] of the swamp [illegible] belonging to the state of Oregon known as the Swamp Land [illegible] the legislative assembly provided for the immediate selection of all the lands [illegible] by [illegible] in this state and for the [illegible] of the same It is [illegible] the members of the board as [illegible] the [illegible] of the country that [illegible] claimed [illegible] would [illegible] the rights [illegible] parties claiming lands under the several laws of the United States at least that it casts a cloud upon their title and which tended to create a [illegible] [illegible] upon the part of some [illegible] reference thereto [illegible] at the next session of the legislature the act of 18[illegible] to quiet title to lands so held was passed It was the object of the legislative assembly to grant all right of the state to any land in possession of or claimed by any actual settler in good faith under either of those laws unless the same had been [illegible] by the authorities of the state or [illegible] a lawful claimant under the act of 187[illegible] above referred to

The provisions of the act of 18[illegible] are words of present grant and effectually so far as it was in the power of the legislative assembly to grant [illegible] granted the same even without the issuance of the [illegible] claim deed The law however has made it the duty of the board [illegible] cases to issue as it is termed such deed, and the board has no discretion in the premises when such application is made other than to ascertain whether the circumstances mentioned in the act creating the grant exist, as the board would hardly feel warranted in undertaking to pass upon the validity of the law In all cases therefore the questions to be determined are:

First—Is the land for which a deed is sought swamp or overflowed within the meaning of the act of congress of March 12 1860 and in possession of or claimed by any actual settler in good faith under the pre emption or homestead laws of the United States

Second—Has such land been selected as swamp or overflowed land by the authorities of the state under the provision of the act of October 6 1870 or claimed by a lawful claimant under that act.

Third—Did such possession or claim of such settler exist before such selection was made and before such land was claimed under the swamp land act of 18[illegible]0 and according to the act of 18[illegible] before such selection was confirmed as provided by the laws of the United States

These several questions being answered in the affirmative the board would under the law have no discretion except to issue the deed [illegible] they involve questions of fact which must necessarily be determined [illegible] intelligent action can be had in the case. It must be known that the land is swamp or overflowed and that it has been selected by the [illegible] as such under the act of congress of March 12 1860

The latter act in effect granted to the state of Oregon all the swamp lands within its limits which were not specially excepted by its provisions It contained a provision however that the selection should be made within [illegible] period Whether a failure to make such selection as provided by the act would [illegible] as a forfeiture of the state title is very questionable without a regular proceeding upon the part of the United States to enforce [illegible] as it is only a condition subsequent though the commissioner of the general land office holds in effect that it will This question may or may not have a bearing in this case The applicant must establish that he is an actual settler in good faith under the pre emption or homestead laws [illegible] such settler under the laws the settlement must have been made in conformity thereto and all acts required by the provisions of the one under which the settlement is claimed to have been made must have been performed in accordance therewith If the settlement were made under the pre emption law were upon unsurveyed lands and had been made prior to March 12 1860 (or since if it were doubtful as to whether the land were swamp or overflowed) no other act could be done by the settler to perfect his title until the survey should be made and under such circumstances the settlement alone might constitute him a settler in good faith Proof upon that point ought to be made to the board in some manner recognized by the law as a due mode of proof in contests in a court of justice [illegible] testimony before the board or depositions taken upon notice by the adverse party It should be shown also that the land had not been selected as swamp or overflowed land by the authorities of the state under the provisions of the act of October 26, 1870 or claimed by a lawful claimant under the act This however can be ascertained by an inspection of the records

In the case under consideration the board have evidence that the land in controversy was surveyed in August 18[illegible] and subsequently in September 187[illegible] A notice of the survey was forwarded to the governor of Oregon by the secretary of the interior July 2 18[illegible] It appears also from certain memoranda that it was selected by the state authorities as swamp and overflowed land January 1 187[illegible] and included in a list filed with the surveyor general September [illegible] 18[illegible] and in the local land office December 1 18[illegible] that it was sold as swamp land to John F Miller December 2 18[illegible] as will appear from certificate of sale numbered [illegible]

It also appears from a certificate of the receiver of the land office at Lake View that it was entered as a preemption claim May 3 1873 by Casper Schneider and that Schneider in his declaratory statement alleged that he settled upon it in March 186[illegible] but the entry was some several months subsequent to the survey It also appears from a certificate of the same receiver that [illegible] the applicant entered the land as a homestead August 1[illegible] 1874

Certain ex parte affidavits have been submitted tending to show that the land was settled upon in good faith before it was selected by the state and claimed under the swamp land act The records so referred to [illegible] corroborate the affidavits and the [illegible] would [illegible] feel justified in [illegible] affidavits

From the data we have before us we are not willing [illegible] [illegible]

AN AWFUL COMBAT

Details of the Battle between the Huascar and the Chilean Fleet

Extraordinary Valor against Fearful Odds of the Officers and Crew of the Peruvian Vessel

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN]

NEW YORK Nov 14—South American [illegible] bring the following details of the [illegible] of the Huascar [illegible] [illegible] at the moment the Chilean [illegible] appeared [illegible] rapidly toward the Huascar from [illegible] [illegible] Admiral Grau perceived clearly that his ship was [illegible] [illegible] company a [illegible] for the struggle with [illegible] the Huascar from such overwhelming forces as those presented by the Chilean vessels [illegible] the decks and tops of the two vessels a fire of [illegible] and gatling guns was [illegible] upon the Huascar the effect was [illegible] apparent

One hour and eight minutes after the commencement of the fight the Huascar had discharged her turret pieces 2[illegible] times against the Cochrane the latter replying with [illegible] At this moment the Chilean iron clad arrived at the scene and immediately opened fire first [illegible] fire to the Huascar's fighting tower and the little tower near the smokestack which is the battle station of the commander The Huascar's guns were excellently served and their effect terrible The tower was carried away and Admiral Grau taken down [illegible] the care of surgeons with one of his legs torn off While in the cabin a solid shot [illegible] from the Huascar struck [illegible] stern destroying her steering gear and passing directly through the ship left a gaping aperture large enough for a boat to enter This shot killed the brave admiral his aide [illegible] and several others Captain Elias Aguirre assumed command of the ship on the death of the admiral and took his station in the gun turret but on this point the two Chileans had concentrated their fire The turret was hit by a heavy shell which passed through a port exploded in [illegible] disabling one of the two guns killing Aguirre and all who were serving the piece The Huascar was now practically at the mercy of the enemy ungovernable and with half her offensive power destroyed Her officers and crew were decimated but the national flag was still flying in defiance and no one even whispered a surrender Captain Melitton Carrajal took command after Aguirre's death but was instantly taken below dangerously wounded First Lieut Rodriguez succeeded him and a moment afterward shared the fate of the admiral and Aguirre Lieut Enrique Palacios followed Rodriguez in command and although severely wounded continued in charge until the end of the bloody drama Still the Huascar discharged her sole remaining cannon at long intervals, as the very turret itself only 30 feet in diameter was choaking up with debris of shattered guns and bodies of dead and wounded

Below in the dark passages and narrow compartments of the ship the scene was frightful The dying and those who had perished were heaped indiscriminately together and every few moments a shot from the enemy came crashing through the sides of the doomed vessel The forecastle was completely shot away the mast cut in two and the mitrailleuse in the tops mutilized The smokestack and chimney were riddled with balls the propeller struck and fouled one gun disabled and out of 115 men, who went into the action only 86 were alive and the majority of these hors du combat Five commanders had succeeded each other in their perilous post Three were dead one grievously wounded and the fifth barely able to maintain his rumpet The Chileans thought that the time had come to close and sent a boarding party to complete the victory But the brave fellows of the Huascar rallied and drove them back with loss This was the expiring effort The Chileans sent another boarding party This time they met with success and the Huascar was theirs

CHANGES OF POLITICAL POWER

One day during the last session of congress Mr Horr a representative from Michigan delivered a speech in which he very plainly told southern members that they and their people were giving up their time mainly to politics and neglecting the objects which make for peaceful prosperity that they were wasting their energies in the effort to prove that the south was right in the war and in making their section "solid" to sustain this pretension and similar ones that three counties in his district in Michigan had gained more in population and wealth since 1860 than any entire state in the south except Texas and that the census of 1880 would tell the solid south a story which would open its eyes to a new situation and inform its statesmen how far they had dropped behind the power they were clutching at during the years they had wasted in making their section solid under the belief that it would be able to rule the country

It is among the certainties that the census of 1880 will show great changes of political power In the absence of later returns of entire population than those of 1870 comparisons are made on the basis of the vote cast by the several states in the election of members of the present congress Some of these figures thus prepared and printed under direction of the republican congressional committee we make use of premising that they are drawn from the official directory of congress, and are therefore entirely authentic These figures would indicate first, a great increase of population in the western, or more properly in the middle states and second a corresponding or greater decrease in the southern states. Taking the vote as the basis of calculation this growing disparity is serious enough to call the attention of southern political leaders to the ruinous effect of southern politics Take Kansas and Alabama. The census of 1870 gave the former a population of 364,399 The vote for governor that year was 60,094 which shows that one person in six voted In 1878 the vote for governor was 138,285 By the same ratio the population in 1878 was 829 710, having considerably more than doubled in eight years Now Alabama. In 1870 the population of that state was 996 792, and its vote that year was 152 862, or one voter to about six and a half persons But the whole vote for members of congress in 1878 was only 87 794. Calculated on the same ratio as in 1870 the population had fallen to 570 661, being a decrease of 426 131 in eight years This would entitle Alabama to but five representatives, instead of eight as at present, while Kansas shows figures which would increase the number of her representatives from three (which she now has) to seven, and perhaps after the census of next year, to eight The comparison is perfectly fair for both states. Is it said, however, that a full vote is not polled in Alabama? But the rulers of that state affirm that no man is molested there for his political views and that free suffrage has free course Either this is not true, or there is no way to account for the diminished vote but by admitting a diminished population Most other southern states show a reduction of votes like that thus observed in Alabama Now in what way can this alarming exhibit of their depopulation be explained away except by the admission that nearly half the electors are actually disfranchised? But the southern leaders are estopped from this plea by their solemn affirmations that there is perfect political freedom in their states

The total vote in twenty-two southern districts in 1878, was 199,798, in the same number of northern districts, 746 775, showing that the number of inhabitants in the twenty two northern districts is nearly four times as great as in the twenty two southern These would seem to be alarming proofs of depopulation of the south, and forerunners of reduction of the number of representatives from that section when the readjustment shall be made upon the new census In the most distinctively "solid" section of the south there are five districts in which only 14,874 votes were cast, which is equivalent to a population of 89,244, or 44,000 less than the ratio for one representative, while on the other hand, the first district of Kansas alone cast 51,092 votes, equivalent to a population of 306 552 In the eighth Georgia district, represented by Alex. H. Stephens, the entire vote cast when he was last elected, was 3413. At the same time the total vote cast in the sixth Michigan district was 40,923 Now as the southern statesmen deny the disfranchisement, they leave no explanation for their reduced vote but depopulation

In fact, however, there has been no decrease of population in the southern states. Every one knows that disfranchisement is the cause of the reduced vote, in spite of all asseverations to the contrary. Still, there is no increase of population in that section comparable with the increase at the north; and hence the south will fall greatly behind after the next apportionment. As a matter of justice it should be deprived of that part of its representation which is based on disfranchised population If the number of representatives and of votes in the electoral college should be reduced in a ratio to the reduction of population indicated by the reduced vote, the political strength of the south would be not more than one fifth of the whole. If a state disfranchises its electors or any part of them, it should, to that extent, be shorn of its political power Should the next census cut down southern representation to such an extent that the solid south would cease to be so great a factor in national politics, it would be a most excellent thing for the south itself, as well as for the entire country Southern politicians would abandon their sectional methods when they learned that with all their efforts they would have too little power to rule

In opening the Prussian diet on the 28th October the king embraced in the list of proposed measures which he submitted a bill for the purchase of railways by the state and the construction of new branches. This project was earnestly agitated before the recent elections were held, and a majority of the members of the present diet are disposed to support it so that its final adoption is confidently anticipated The ends contemplated are not merely the adjustment of such railway difficulties as have arisen in this country but the consolidation of the railway system of Germany in a manner best calculated to promote military objects That government should control both railroads and telegraphs is a policy which has had numerous advocates in the United States But it would be useless and ruinous to attempt in our country the comprehensive policy which Germany has undertaken The efforts [illegible] made to construct and operate railways and can[illegible] ing to various states for commercial purposes by officers and employes subjected to the capricious changes [illegible] by partisan revolutions have [illegible] should be able to conduct [illegible] of private [illegible] free from partisan control

The [illegible] gans are beginning [illegible] Senator [illegible] retire from political life at the expiration of his term The Albany Democrat speaks of a letter received from him to that effect. It was unnecessary for him to [illegible] as the people never record of his administration as governor became known that Oregon would ever trust him again in any position Neither Senator Grover nor any member of his ring dares again to appear before the people of Oregon as a candidate for any office

Secretary Evarts recently visited the birth place of Washington in Bridges creek Westmoreland county Virginia for the purpose of looking over the grounds with a view to selecting a suitable spot for a monument An old fashioned brick chimney is all that is left to mark the house in which Washington outgrew pinafores The land is now owned by James S Wilson

We publish to day a decision by the board of school land commissioners upon a case which attracted some attention it being a test case on which numerous others are made to depend The decision will therefore be read with interest by many particularly in the southern part of the state

Hendricks reiterates his refusal to take the second place on the ticket Well Tilden doesn't care the bar'l will do for the second place

At Turn Halle

Decidedly the best and most exciting race of the week was the ten mile run at Turn Halle last night between Emmet Fitzgerald and T B Sturges which was arranged too late for announcement in the morning papers Like the previous evenings the hall was filled ladies forming no small portion of the audience Both contestants were in excellent trim and at 8 started on a keen run Fitzgerald leading slightly and making the half mile in [illegible] minutes They gradually increased their pace and scored the laps with wonderful rapidity Fitzgerald made his first mile in [illegible] Sturges one and a half laps behind in [illegible] The second and third miles were a repetition of the first except that the pace was somewhat diminished On the fourth mile Fitzgerald showed the audience a trick which seemed to greatly please them As he reached the scorers stand he would whirl and run in the opposite direction at high speed and gain from a quarter to half a lap before Sturges could tumble to his racket Fitzgerald finished his five miles in 35 55, and Sturges in 35 55 On his seventh mile Fitzgerald who was running bare footed got a splinter in his heel and was obliged to leave the track for nearly three minutes during which time Sturges made four laps and placed himself even with his little opponent Fitzgerald gained a little in the next two miles and at the beginning of the last mile just ten seconds On the last half he made some terrific spurts one lap being made in 5¾ seconds These spurts won him the race Sturges being too much fatigued to overtake Fitzgerald who completed the 10 miles in 1 hour 19 minutes and 40 seconds amid tremendous applause Sturges finishing in 1 hour 21 minutes and 2 seconds The following is the score by miles

Fitzgerald—6 18 7 33 7 2 7 30 8 10 8 0 10 45 7 07 48.
Sturges—6 47 7 48 7 41 8 30 8 09 8 17 9 03 7 59 8.36, 8 12.

At 10 o clock Miss Sherman and Sadie Donley began their 24 hour heel and toe walk and took a steady rather slow pace making the first mile together in 11 30 The contest of course will last until to-night at 10 Some lively spurts may be looked for this afternoon and especially toward the finish Both pedestrians are in splendid trim and have excellent care at the hands of trainers

Misses Lillie Denman and Alice Donley appeared regularly and walked towards their 600th quarter mile with undiminished vigor and cheerfulness At 1 o'clock yesterday morning Miss Denman made her 500th quarter in 2 18. Miss Donley made her 580th quarter at 10:15 P M in 13

To-night at 8 o clock Charley Thompson of this city will walk W H Smith of San Francisco one mile on a wager of $20 After the conclusion of the 24 hour walk Fitzgerald and four amateurs of this city will run five miles. Among the business houses of Portland which have sprung, at once into prominence and taken place side by side with establishments of older growth none is more noticeable than the firm of Messrs L Blumauer & Co [illegible] No 165 First street [illegible] business in May 18[illegible] they [illegible] close attention [illegible] deal [illegible] increased their [illegible] of their trade that [illegible] necessary to establish [illegible] A [illegible] location was chosen [illegible] Stark streets Skilled workmen have [illegible]

In the rear of the store is a semi circular counter [illegible] supported by finely carved and engraved brackets being of Koa wood from the Society islands This wood has the color of black walnut and the grain of rose wood and is much admired by architects and builders On this counter the prescription case of Prima [illegible] golden mahogany filled and highly polished the panels containing embossed mirrors There are no counters properly speaking at the sides the space being taken up by four large glass counter cases the lower portions being filled with the finest toilet sets toilet articles perfumeries soaps brushes etc The north side of the store is devoted to perfumery and patent medicines and the south to drugs and chemicals proper

The little palace is illuminated by two crystal and brass four light chandeliers one Japanese two light drop four pure brass brackets one at each side of the large mirrors and by brackets in the grand show windows Every portion of the counters and fixtures were made from designs drawn especially for the firm by Architect W F Williams

Back of the store and connected by two doors is the laboratory having an entrance on Stark street A winding stairs leads to a room above used for storing bulky and less sightly goods The bedroom of the night clerk adjoins this department The store is under the charge of Mr W N Wallace well and favorably known as a first class pharmacist and a corps of competent assistants

The main wholesale and retail depot and manufacturing department will be in future as they have been in the past at 165 First street under the personal supervision of the affable proprietor Mr Louis Blumauer whose experience in a thorough complete course at the New York College of Pharmacy and afterwards in practical business renders him eminently fit to manage the helm of his establishment They have recently taken the sole agency for the United States of the celebrated R[illegible] pills which are widely used abroad and justly merited both as a blood purifier and tonic

An enumeration of the different articles in stock or even of the various classes would be tiresome to the reader and it is sufficient to say that in all that goes to make up a first class drug store, Messrs Blumauer & Co have attained the highest standard. They extend a cordial invitation to the public to inspect their new store whether they wish to purchase or not

SAD BURIAL AT SEA

A BEAUTIFUL YOUNG LIFE EVENTFUL BRIEF

In THE OREGONIAN of May 21 1878 mention was made of especially interesting Sabbath services conducted by Chaplain Stubbs on board the City of Halifax Capt J Evans master A large delegation of ladies Gen Babbitt U S A and other citizens of Portland were present and witnessed the baptism of the captain's infant daughter—to whom was given the appropriate name of Elizabeth Pacific thus christened taking her mother's name and because she was born on the Pacific ocean

After an absence of 18 months the City of Halifax has returned to this port, but not so Elizabeth Pacific Taken ill after the vessel left Ningpo China she gradually grew worse Amid fearful storms with which the ship had to contend for long and weary days and nights while working out of the Japanese waters the little patient sufferer sank despite the most assiduous care and nursing until Oct. 17th about 1 A M and with 200 miles of the place of her nativity her spirit returned to God who gave her —Ecclesiastes [illegible] Regardless of the sorrows of bereaved parents in their isolation and cabin solitude the good ship ploughed her stately way toward her destined port urged on by the stricken father in obedience to the regal sway of duty and the high mandate of commerce Through her lofty cordage propitious winds sighed their mournful requiem while tear moistened parental hands were deftly plying the trembling needle to shroud the young innocent for her lonely mid-ocean grave Then as the next meridian sun neared [illegible] the stricken group and [illegible] the sympathizing and awe stricken crew saw mirrored their own mortality The impatient ship [illegible] [illegible] a curved steed paused for a few brief [illegible] the boundless ocean and [illegible] reality to the [illegible] witnessed the burial of E [illegible] Capt Evans in lat 41 10 N and long 150 30 F [illegible] the place where she [illegible] ten months before she was born

GRAND JURY REPORT

[illegible]

The grand jury of the county [illegible] discharged [illegible] of the term [illegible] respectfully [illegible] report that after [illegible] upon our duties [illegible] examined [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] before us [illegible]

[illegible]

As far as we are [illegible] of justice [illegible] the county [illegible] economy [illegible] the criminal business [illegible] transacted [illegible] same can be [illegible] county and state

COUNTY HOSPITAL

We visited the county hospital and carefully looked into [illegible] management and can [illegible] in justice to the superintendent [illegible] say [illegible] improvements [illegible] in its regulations [illegible] as we [illegible] the absence of the superintendent when [illegible] could have been advised of our purpose We found everything pertaining to the management [illegible] the same so well regulated [illegible] and attended with at the same time every department is conducted with [illegible] economy We can not but regard the county hospital as an institution of just pride to the citizens of the county and state We found [illegible] persons inmates of the hospital classified as follows White persons [illegible] colored [illegible] Chinese 5 We ascertained the [illegible] patients to be principally afflicted with loathsome and incurable diseases requiring a separate [illegible] ing

And we consider that so large a portion of taxes imposed upon the people of the county are in consequence of supporting so great a number of the Chinese in hospitals and prisons and by expenses necessarily incurred in their prosecution for crimes We are led to hope that some measure may speedily be devised by which a burden weighing so heavily upon citizens of the county may be legally removed

COLLECTION OF TAXES

In this connection we most heartily commend the action of our county assessor in his efforts to collect from the Chinese inhabitants of the county the statutory tax so justly imposed and we invoke at the hands of our courts a liberal construction of the law in his support in that behalf

Having now concluded the business before us we respectfully ask to be discharged

The Walking Match

The Pedestrienne's Song.

I

With a painful limp in her heels,
With corns upon all of her toes,
A woman tramps round a sawdust track
And thus gives vent to her woes
Walk walk walk!
Down and up and around
With Donley close behind me
And Denman gaining ground

II

Walk walk walk
When the day breaks overhead
And walk walk walk,
When the Chinamen go to bed
I d rather be a wheel
On the engine of Number Four
Or even a peanut roasting machine
Than to keep up this thing much more

III

Though the rooster turns and turns
It [illegible] once in a while
And the wheels of the engine sometimes rest
When the boys go in to smile
But Wiley and Florence stride
With VonBerg at Armory Hall,
And if I give out they ll scalp the tin
That into my purse should fall

IV

Walk walk walk!
My sorrows none can tell
Oh happy the women who promenade,
Or shop at the I X L
When I think of that grand bazaar
My task seems doubly hard
And I long to handle their new silk plush
At ninety cents a yard

Tis true one bought I have
To somewhat lighten my woe
That on my swollen feet I wear
Their two bit Balbriggan hose—
That fancy silk clocked hose
At twenty five cents a pair—
Long fine full finished and just the thing
For a tramper like me to wear

VI

Oh when this week is over
And I have forgotten the pain,
I never will walk for glory
I never will walk for gain
There s but one thing I shall walk for
You want to know it —well
I will only walk for bargains
To the mammoth I X L

DECISION IN THE U. S. CIRCUIT COURT. DEADY, J.

U. S. Circuit Court—District of Oregon.

Wednesday, November 12, 1879.

The Bank of British North America v. M. M. Ellis, J. D. Lee, W. C. Brown, T. G. Richmond and Isaac Levins, No. 525. Action upon Promissory Notes.

(1) NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS—POSSESSION OF. The possession of a negotiable instrument imports, prima facie, that the holder acquired it bona fide, for value, in the usual course of business, without notice of any fact impugning its validity; and that he is the owner thereof and entitled to recover the contents from all prior parties thereto.

(2) IDEM—CONSIDERATION OF. Enquiry into the consideration of a negotiable paper can only be made between privies or the immediate parties thereto—as the maker and payee or an indorser and his indorsee; all other parties are called remote, and as between them a consideration for making and endorsing the same is conclusively presumed; but a want of consideration may be shown by a defendant against a remote party, if the latter took the paper with the knowledge that such want could be shown against a nearer party.

(3) IDEM, ACCOMMODATION MAKER OR INDORSER.—A party who makes or indorses a note without consideration and for the purpose of thereby lending his credit to another is an accommodation maker or indorser and cannot show a want of consideration therefor against any one except the accommodated party.

(4) DEFENSE, WANT OF CONSIDERATION.—A party to negotiable paper who seeks to make the want of consideration a defense to an action thereon must not only allege such want of consideration, but also show how and why he is entitled to make such defense as against the plaintiff in any aspect of the case made in the complaint.

(5) INDORSER.—An indorser's contract and liability is separate and distinct from that of the maker's: he agrees that the instrument will be paid, by himself, if not by the maker, and as his own debt and not that of another.

(6) INDORSEMENT.—In the absence of anything to the contrary an indorsement is presumed to have been made regularly—after the making of the instrument and the indorsement of the same by the payee and before its maturity, and the indorser thereby becomes liable, as such, to any subsequent holder of the paper, whether he then had any interest in the same or not, unless there was an agreement that he should be liable only as guarantor, which was known to the holder at the time of acquiring the paper.

DEADY, J.

This action is brought to recover the sum of $2025 alleged to be due the plaintiff on 48 promissory notes with interest, costs of protest and an attorney fee.

The complaint alleges that the plaintiff is a corporation organized in the Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and that the defendants are citizens of Oregon.

That all of said notes were made on May 1, 1878, and 8 of them are payable on Oct. 1, 1878, and the remaining 35 on January 1, 1879; that each of said notes was endorsed by said defendants, and thereafter and prior to their maturity the plaintiff acquired the same in the regular course of business and is now the owner and holder thereof; and that "said notes falling due and remaining unpaid" the plaintiff procured the same to be protested.

The answer of the defendants contains sundry denials and three special pleas or defences.

The first one alleges that the makers of said notes received no consideration for the same, and "these defendants, endorsers of said notes * * * received no consideration for such endorsement," and that the plaintiff at the time it acquired said notes had knowledge of these facts.

The second one alleges that said notes were made in pursuance of an agreement between the makers thereof and the Dayton, Sheridan and Grand Ronde Railway Co., that the latter would construct and put in operation by October 1, 1878, a branch of its railway from a place called Broadmeads to the town of Dallas; and were placed in the hands of B. S. Crystal, J. D. Lee and H. C. Brown, as agents and trustees, to deliver the same to said Railway Co. upon the completion by it of said contract; that afterwards said trustees, with the consent of said makers, delivered said notes to said Railway Co. upon its promise to perform said contract, but that said company has hitherto wholly failed to perform said contract, and the consideration for said notes has failed, and that the plaintiff had notice of these facts when it acquired said notes.

The third defence alleges that the defendants did not indorse such notes "until long after they were made;" that the same were made payable to the order of said Railway Co.; that said defendants never had "any interest in said notes" or consideration for endorsing the same; and that the plaintiffs at the time of acquiring the notes had knowledge of these facts.

The plaintiff demurs to each of these defences because the same does not state facts sufficient to constitute a defence.

Each of these defences must stand or fall by itself and without any aid from either of the others. (Hall v. Austin, 1 Deady, 107; Bachman v. Everding, 1 Saw., 72.)

The first defence merely alleges that the notes were made by the makers and indorsed by the defendants without consideration—not that the consideration has failed, but that there never was any.

This is not a shadow of a defence to this action. The mere possession of a negotiable note imports, prima facie, that the holder acquired it bona fide, for value, in the usual course of business, without notice of any circumstance impeaching its validity; and that he is the owner thereof, entitled to recover the contents of the same from all prior parties thereto. (1 Dan., Neg. In., § 812; 1 Par., N. & B., 184; Collins v. Gilbert, 4 Otto, 754.) Here, the plaintiff not only alleges that it is the owner and holder of these notes, but that it acquired them before maturity in due course of business.

An allegation, then, that these notes were made or endorsed by the defendants without consideration is no defence to its claim to recover. Enquiry into the consideration of negotiable paper can only be made between privies, or immediate parties thereto—as the maker and payee, an indorser and his indorsee. All other parties to negotiable paper are called remote, and, as between them, a consideration for making or endorsing the same is conclusively presumed. But the defendant may make the defence of a want of consideration against a remote party if he could have done so against a nearer party and such remote party took the paper with a knowledge that it was open to this defence. (1 Dan. Neg. In. § 174; Par. N. & B. 175, 183.) And to this qualification of the rule, there is an important exception in the case of accommodation paper. A party who makes or indorses a note without consideration and for the purpose of thereby lending his credit to another is an accommodation maker or endorser, and cannot make the defence of a want of consideration against any one except the accommodated party. The note is supposed to be taken by third persons upon the credit given to him; and he is expected to pay it. (1 Dan. Neg. In. § 189; 1 Par. N. & B., 183.) A party to negotiable paper who seeks to make the want of consideration a defence to an action thereon must not only allege such want of consideration, but must go further and show how and why he is entitled to make such defence as against the plaintiff in any aspect of the case made in the complaint. In this case, it does not appear from the plea that the defendants are entitled to avail themselves as against this plaintiff, of the want of consideration for either making or endorsing these notes. The makers are not sued, and the question of their liability in this respect is not in the case. An indorser's contract and liability is separate and distinct from that of the maker's. An indorsement is not merely a transfer of the note, but it is also a fresh and substantive contract by which the endorser agrees, among other things, that the note will be paid at maturity by himself, if not by the maker, and as his own debt, and not that of another. (1 Dan. Neg. In., § 630; 2 Par. N. & B., 23.)

For aught that appears here, there is no privity between the plaintiff and the defendants, and therefore it is immaterial in this action whether the latter received any consideration for their endorsement or not, unless it further appears that the plaintiff gave no consideration for the notes, and that no holder, intermediate between the plaintiff and the defendant, did so. (Hoffman & Co. v. Bank of Milwaukee, 12 Wall., 191.) Again, it would not be inconsistent with this defence if the defendants endorsed these notes without consideration for the accommodation of the makers or payee or its indorsee, and therefore they may be liable thereon, notwithstanding such want of consideration.

The plea to be a good defence must meet this phase of the case by denying directly that the defendants were accommodation indorsers, or by stating facts inconsistent therewith. The second plea is still less material than the first. It only alleges in effect that the consideration for the making of the notes, to-wit: the promise of the railway company to construct and operate a branch road to Dallas by October 1, 1878, has failed. This may be so, but in an action by a holder of these notes against an indorser, such fact alone is wholly immaterial. Notwithstanding this, even the defendants may have indorsed these notes to the plaintiff and received from it therefor their full value.

The third defense is also bad. The only facts which it contains in addition to the others, is, that the defendants did not endorse these notes "until long after they were made, and never had any interest in them.

In the absence of anything to the contrary an endorsement upon negotiable paper is presumed to have been made after the making of the same and before maturity; and if such endorsement be made by any one other than the original payee, then after his endorsement. And, as between an endorser after maturity and a subsequent holder of a negotiable note, the former is held liable as upon a note payable on demand, and even as an original promissor. (2 Par. N. & B. 9, 13; 1 Dan. Neg. In., § 929; New Orleans etc. Co. v. Montgomery, 5 Otto, 18.) This allegation as to the time when the endorsement of the defendant was made only amounts to this, that such indorsement was made after the note was, which fact is consistent with the allegation of the complaint and the defendants' liability to the plaintiff.

But upon this fact and the allegation that the defendants never had any interest in the notes, it is argued by counsel that they are not in law indorsers, but guarantors, which is a collateral agreement and void unless made upon a distinct consideration.

What is the nature of the liability which a third person incurs who indorses a note before the payee thereof has been a vexed question in the law and has been settled differently in different states. In the supreme court of the U. S. the rule is established that such person is either an original promissor, a guarantor or indorser according to the nature of the transaction and the intent and purpose with which the indorsement is made; which may be shown by parol; upon the theory that such an indorsement is irregular and ambiguous. (Rey v. Simpson, 22 How. 350; Good v. Martin, 5 Otto, 94.)

But the allegation that the defendants did not indorse these notes until long after they were made, does not even imply that they indorsed them before the payee did—before they were put in circulation—but rather the contrary. Nor is it a sufficient allegation that they were indorsed after maturity.

The presumption is that the defendants indorsed the notes regularly—after the payee—and although they then had no interest in them, they are still liable to the plaintiffs as indorsers, unless there was an agreement or understanding at the time that they were to be liable only as guarantors, and that this was known to the plaintiffs at the time of acquiring the notes. But in favor of the plaintiffs the defendants are presumed to have indorsed as payees; and for the purpose of maintaining this action against them, as such, the plaintiff may write over the endorsement of the original payee, "Pay to the order of the defendants," naming them or any other contract or direction not inconsistent with what it knew to be the purpose of such indorsement. (2 Par., N. & B., 2.)

Besides the defendants may have indorsed these notes for the accommodation of the maker or the original payee or its indorsee, and in such case the fact that they had no interest in the notes and received no consideration for their indorsements thereon, is wholly immaterial, and would be just what every one at all conversant with the subject would ordinarily infer from the premises.

In the course of the argument for the defendants it was suggested that if their defenses must be considered separately that application would be made to amend the answer so as to state the three in one, and counsel for the plaintiff, as a matter of convenience, has considered this as already done. But such an amendment will make no difference in the result. The plaintiff being presumed to be the bona fide holder of these notes for value, before maturity, and such assumption not being negatived or contradicted by these pleas, prima facie, it is entitled to recover their contents from any and all of the prior parties thereto; and no plea is or can be a defense to this action, unless it states facts sufficient to negative this conclusion, so far as the defendants are concerned, in any and every phase of the case made in the complaint.

Negotiable paper is the life blood of commerce and business, and its circulation and usefulness would be seriously impaired if every maker or remote indorser thereof could set up a failure to keep the private understandings or agreements between himself and third persons, upon which he claims to have signed or indorsed the same, to avoid the payment thereof according to his obligation, as shown by the instrument, in the hands of a bona fide holder for value. Parties who put their names to or upon negotiable paper upon the faith of other people's expectations and promises, must not expect, if they are thereby deceived or disappointed, to throw the loss upon those who in good faith have taken their paper for what they or those whom they trusted gave it out to be.

The demurrer is sustained.

Ellis G. Hughes, for the plaintiff.

H. Y. Thompson and George H. Durham, for the defendants.

The Liverpool Grain Market.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 14.—A leading grain circular says that the wheat market since the commencement of the week has been exceedingly quiet and has further declined one shilling per quarter for both English and foreign. Arrivals of cargoes off coast have been large, with improved demand and an advance of sixpence per quarter was obtainable. Cargoes on passage are also less depressed.

At Liverpool spot transactions since Tuesday have been limited at one penny per cental decline.

Maize was quiet and prices unchanged.

The tone of the market to-day is improved, and yesterday's decline in wheat is recovered, with an occasional advance of a penny per cental. Business was chiefly of a consumptive character and steady, but unimportant.

Flour was steadier.

Corn was held for a penny per cental advance, which was obtained to a moderate extent.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast.

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES.

HAS RETURNED AFTER AN EXTENSIVE tour of the Eastern States, for the past four months. The Doctor while absent visited all the principal Medical institutions in the large cities of the United States, and comes back with all the modern methods, instruments and appliances known to the most scientific men in the profession. The Doctor has also brought charts and manikins to illustrate his lecture.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN has been fifteen years lecturing on the Laws of Life and Health. In his private and public lectures he has taught men and women the true system of life; how to be healthy and happy, if they would only be guided by his wise counsel. But all cannot hear his delightful and instructive lectures, nor can he tell everything necessary for suffering humanity to know from the public rostrum before a promiscuous audience. There remains much to be learned from him as his experience extends over broad fields of active professional life. This knowledge so necessary to the welfare of the sufferer can only be gleaned by private Professional Consultation at his office.

His experience in the various parts of Europe and America give him such opportunities of learning the delicate diseases which the human family are prone to, their mode of treatment and permanent cure, as no other physician on the Pacific Coast can claim. He has not only treated these diseases most successfully, but has made them a life study, as a few moments' consultation will prove.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

IT IS TRUE

That persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Those who call in time upon DR. PAUL M. BRENAN need have no fear but what he will restore them to perfect health and vigor, make their body pure and their mind content, if they will only follow his advice and treatment.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail. No Quack Nostrums used; no shop treatment; no false promises.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. All fine Surgical Operations performed.

Office—No. 68 First street, between Oak and Pine.
